A Seasoned Approach

"We believe the Market will face uncertainty and headwinds in the years ahead. Our main goal is to seek the highest level of portfolio performance regardless of the financial climate. To do so, we employ multiple approaches, one of which is a hedging strategy," explains Anthony. "The results are much stronger than the antiquated buy and hold approach which we often refer to as buy and hope."

Actively Managed Assets

"We believe in taking an active manage and monitor approach to our client's assets. During periods of market uncertainty, we have the ability to quickly adapt and adjust our client's asset allocations. We work with financial vehicles that have safeguards in volatile markets, yet take full advantage of the opportunities for growth," says Michael.

Goldstone specializes in creating a tailored wealth plan to suit the needs of each client. "We like it when we can sit down with clients and show them how they're currently positioned, and educate them on what they could be doing to improve their situation," says Michael. "There's nothing like the 'aha' moment when a client says, 'I didn't know options like these were available to us'. We enjoy bringing peace of mind to clients who were previously unaware of these possible solutions."
